CLUE TO LINK YOUTHS WITH TRACY MURDER

Detectives Seek to Connect Leopold and Loeb With at Least One Other Killing and Maiming Attack-Man Brutally Mutilated Identifies Boys as Assassins.

TOWN TOPICS

(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, June 3.—A declaration that the bullet which killed Freeman Louis Tracy, a student, on November 25, fits one of the pistols found in the room of Nathan Leopold, who with Richard Loeb, both sons of millionaires, have confessed the kidnapping and slaying of Robert Franks, 14 years old, was made by Dr. Joseph Springer, coroner's physician, today.

The physician's statement is the first clue that the authorities have found to connect the kidnappers with the Tracy murder, one of the most mysterious slayings which ever confronted the police.

Leopold and Loeb, self-confessed kidnappers and slayers of young Frank from whose father they attempted to extort a ransom of $10,000 were identified yesterday as the attackers who maimed Charles Beaman by an operation of mutilation only five days after the killing of Tracy.

(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, June 3.—Nathan E. Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, confessed slayers of Robert Franks, spent the night in jail while prosecutors and detectives sought to connect them with at least one other murder and a maiming attack in further elaboration of their Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde existence, honor graduate students at the University of Chicago by day and seeked after thrills in the laboratory of life by night—thrills which satisfied their jaded appetites of 19 years only with death.

The youthful kidnaper-slayers, both prospective heirs to millions, still maintain their only motive in killing the 14-year-old Franks boy was an experimental adventure and hope of obtaining the $10,000 ransom demanded from Jacob Franks, the father, a retired multi-millionaire pawn broker and manufacturer.

Norman Ream, young taxicab driver, taken to the county jail by news papermen seeking an explanation of the attack of mutilation upon him last fall, screamed an identification of Leopold and Loeb and fell in a faint. The other unexplained attack, which like that upon Ream, occurred in the vicinity of the Franks' and Leopold mansions in the southside millionaire colony, is the murder of Freeman Louis Tracy, college student and high salaried electrical technician.

The Tracy murder never has been explained. His body, with a bullet hole through the head, was tossed from a speeding automobile near the University of Chicago after he last had been seen nearly a short time previously returning home from a dance.

In furtherance of his fight to send young Leopold and Loeb to the gallows, Robert E. Crowe, State's attorney, today will seek indictments before the June grand jury. He lost the first skirmish in his fight yesterday, when pleas for writs of habeas corpus were answered by the students being taken from his custody and remanded to jail. Defense attorneys demanded that steps be taken to prevent further use of the two young men in weavings the net of evidence about them; a task they had entered into wholeheartedly. (See ap-

American Party Seeks Support of K. K. K. and Drys

(By The Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, O., June 3.—The American party, organized in Pennsylvania 3 months ago and holding its first national convention here today, will ask support of the Ku Klux Klan and the prohibition party, according to an arrangement of W. M. Likins, of Cincinnati, temporary secretary.

Mr. Likins stated the party hopes to put a full slate and congressional ticket in the field in the fall election. Mr. Likins said that the American party is seeking support of the Ku Klux Klan, "because our party depends upon those who desire to see the laws enforced."

About 100 delegates are expected to attend the convention. Delegates represent the Knights of Malta, the Order of United American Mechanics, several locals of the Ku Klux Klan and a number of protestant churches.

Measure to Change Reclamation Laws Reported by House

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 3.—A bill designed to afford relief to settlers on reclamation projects and to provide sweeping changes in the reclamation law was reported today by the House irrigation committee.

The measure is in line with the recommendations of Secretary Works fact finding commission on reclamation which has been approved by President Coolidge. The vote was 12 to 1.

House action on the bill will be sought before adjournment. Chairman Smith being instructed to use every effort to call it up before the suspension of the rules, which would shut off amendments, limit debate to forty minutes and require a two-thirds vote for passage.

TWO BALLOONISTS KILL IN FALL

COUNCIL BALLOT SLIPS SCRAPPED DUE TO ERROR

FASTIDIOUS

When "Bathhouse John" Coughlin blossomed forth in his new spring finery, his colleagues in Chicago's city council adopted a resolution publicly commanding him for his "fastidious" fulgence and his fastidious discrimination in neckwear." The effect of the pink (or was it lavender?) tie was deemed "invigorating, refreshing and elevating to the standards of statesmanship and municipal government."

COPIED AFTER FICTION CROOK TO ROB BANK

Worked There Nearly Three Years to Get Chance to Walk Out With $47,200.

By L. C. OWEN
(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—Truth may be stranger than fiction, but sometimes it borrows from fiction, as does Rowan, missing bank cashier, has just demonstrated.

Three years ago a popular magazine published a fiction story in which a clever crook assumed a "gray personality," secured a position of trust in a bank, and looted it of many thousands. When the hue and cry got under way, it was discovered that nobody knew anything about the thief. His "gray personality" role had been applied to his appearance and the only description available was one that would fit almost any of a thousand persons met on a crowded city street.

It's just that situation that the authorities are up again trying to find 24-year-old Dale Rowan, who a day or two ago walked out of the bank of Italy here with $47,200. There are many evidences that Rowan patterned his crime after the "gray personality" story.

The worn hand bag in which he carried off his loot was the same one in which, day after day, month after month, he had brought his noonday lunch to the bank. That was the way the fictional "gray personality" worked it.

Rowan sought employment at the Bank of Italy shortly after the "gray personality" story appeared. Emulating the fictional crook, he gave a false address both in his application for employment and to the banking company which signed his bond.

In the two years and eight months that was with the bank, working up from a humble clerkship to the post of chief teller, everything shows that he played his "gray personality" role continuously and scrupulously.

He had no intimate friends within the bank and outside he kept entirely to himself. The bank officials thought he was a married man and the father of two small children. His disappearance disclosed his family to be purely fictitious.

The bonding company has a photograph of Rowan, submitted with his application for bond, but it is a photograph that tells little and might be that of any average man of 24 years in the category is the description given by bank officials. Rowan had no outstanding characteristics. He was just an average looking young man.

The very fact of the abandoned teller's close adherence to the "gray personality" story, however, leads the authorities to believe they will ultimately apprehend him. In his efforts to carry out a "perfect crime," they think he will make the slip of carrying out the "gray personality" just a step too far.

There are, then, inest, no "perfect crimes."

Charges Newspaper Conspiracy Against M'Adoo's Candidacy

(By The Associated Press)
LOS ANGELES, June 3.—A nationwide newspaper conspiracy against W. G. McAdoo's candidacy for the democratic presidential nomination is charged in a statement signed by David Ladd Rockwell, chairman of the national McAdoo-for-president committee and made public here today at McAdoo's headquarters.

"Almost the entire partisan Republican press and all of reactionary democratic press says the statement, 'have combined to suppress all news favorable to Mr. McAdoo's candidacy.' At the same time all news unfavorable to his candidacy has been given a conspicuous place upon the front pages. Editorially, too, the partisan Republican papers of this country have persistently and consistently endeavored at all times to impress upon the Democratic electors Mr. McAdoo's unavailability."

AMERICAN UNION TELEPHONE COMPANY GOES OUT BUSINESS

(By The Associated Press)
WINCHESTER, Va., June 3.—Head sets were hung up and plugs were pulled out by operators of the American Union Telephone Company for the last time at midnight Saturday. The company went out of business.

The state corporation commission recently granted the American Union Telephone Company permission that it be permitted to quit operating in Virginia because of lack of business after similar petitions in recent years had been refused because of opposition by rural mutual companies. The company contended it was operating at a loss.

More than a dozen rural mutual companies now are without a central connection.

START COOKING BARBECUE FOR HIGHWAY FEAST

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 3.—The Pan-American Highway Commission, representing nine Latin-American countries, confronted its first actual work of its conference today with inspection of the experimental station of the office of public roads at Arlington, Va.

The commission, accompanied by government officials, members of the highway board and several Latin-American diplomats leave tonight for Raleigh, N. C., the first stop on a tour of eight states, during which every variety of road and problems of highway construction will be studied.

(Special to The Bee.)

YANCEYVILLE, N. C., June 3.—The task of cooking the meats to be served to the "Good Roads" visitors here next Thursday will be started in the Graves grove tomorrow evening. The material has already been collected and the chefs who are being sent by Greensboro and Winston-Salem, N. C., to superintend the big feast will be here tomorrow. The barbecue will be in approved style with whole animals cooked on a spit.

Arrangements have been completed for parking the automobiles which has been one of the most difficult problems in view of the large number of machines expected. West of the community space has been reserved for six hundred cars bearing the official party from Greensboro, N. C., and these will be headed towards the road to Highways so that the get-away will not be complicated after the local exercises have been completed. While Governor Morrison and Governor Trinkle are certain to be here there is also a report that the governors of several other nearby states will be here as well as the road engineers from South and Latin American countries.

The local committee on arrangements will leave here on Wednesday night for Greensboro and will spend the night there taking part in the journey from Greensboro to Yanceyville on Thursday by way of Reidsville.

Yanceyville is in a fair way to get more publicity than ever before in its history. In addition to staff correspondents from a number of metropolitan newspapers, cameramen representing the new reel company will be here. Another feature of the caravan will be the inclusion of a full fledged radio broadcasting set which will be set up from time to time during the three days trip through North Carolina and by which news of the progress of the expedition will be given out. The South American visitors will come to North Carolina to examine roads recently built and others in course of construction after witnessing similar operations in Minnesota and Illinois.

Prior to accepting the post of ambassador to Japan in 1921, Mr. Warren was Republican national committeeman from Michigan and a Representative leader in that state. President Coolidge had a conference today with Will H. Hayes, former chairman of the Republican national committee and George Harvey but its nature was not disclosed. He also had an appointment with Dr. Marion Leroy Burton, president of the University of Michigan, who has been selected to place his name before the convention and who is preparing his nominating speech.

The chairman of the resolutions committee which drafts the platform, is elected by the members of the committee, consisting of one delegate from each state but it was said today by party leaders here that unless something unforeseen develops, Mr. Warren would be chosen.

Mr. Warren probably will not be able to come to Washington to confer with President Coolidge before the convention meets, but is said to be well informed as to the desires of the president relative to a platform. Conferences recently have been held by the president and Secretary Stumpf with representatives Mills of New York and Vare of Pennsylvania, both of whom will sit on the resolutions committee, and it has been reported that these two among others will carry to Cleveland the views of Mr. Coolidge.

The local committee on arrangements will leave here on Wednesday night for Greensboro and will spend the night there taking part in the journey from Greensboro to Yanceyville on Thursday by way of Reidsville.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Decision has been rendered on the charge of forgery brought against Mrs. Eleanor Elaine Lee Harris by her husband, Beverly D. Harris, at a hearing yesterday. It was indicated the decision would be rendered June 13. Mr. Harris recently won a jury verdict deciding he was entitled to have his marriage annulled because Mrs. Harris had misrepresented her character. A letter by which Mrs. Harris sought a reversal of the annulment verdict represented Mr. Harris as confessing to another woman that he knew his wife to be innocent.

Mrs. Harris was asked on the witness stand yesterday if she believed her husband could have written the letter, said: "I think he's a fool. I think he could even commit murder."

Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound First. Proved Good Advice

Chicago, Illinois.—"Just a few lines to let you know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I was married going on for three years, and went to a doctor and was taking treatments twice a week for pains every month. I used to lie in bed three or four days with them and the doctor would call and inject something into my arm to put me asleep so I would not feel the pains. At last she said I would have to be operated on if I wanted any children. Well, I just happened to go see a friend with her first baby and I told her I was going to the hospital, and she said, 'Don't do it! You go and get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you won't need any operation.' So my husband got me a bottle right away. Now I have two lovely children. Believe me, I recommend the Vegetable Compound to any woman I know has any kind of female trouble. It has helped me and a lot of my friends."—Mrs. A. MCANDLESS, 1709 S. Morgan St., Chicago, Ill.  (Written Expressly for The Bee)

SPITZBERGEN, June 3.—On this rim of the world front, which Captain Roald Amundsen, Lieutenant Ralph E. Davison, U. S. N., and I expect soon to hop off on our Trans-Polar flight, Five hundred miles farther north than the northern-most Alaska, and only 650 miles from the North Pole, coal mines flourish.

But they are far different from the mines in other parts of the world. As a rule pits must be dug far down into the ground, and the work must be done in terrific heat, moisture and gas fumes. Up here the miners live right in the mountains. The galleries are high above water level, the average temperature is 25 degrees F., and gas fumes is an unknown quantity.

It is extremely beautiful to visit a Spitzbergen coal mine. The low temperature causes frost to gather on the roofs and walls of the mines and when one walks through with a torch, the frost glitters and sparkles like diamonds. One can almost imagine having been transferred to Aladdin's treasury cave.

For as the diamonds are only "frost," operation costs and transportation difficulties makes the Spitzbergen coal treasure a liability instead of an asset.

Even Spitzbergen lies three days by steamer from even the most northerly port in Norway, and its east coast is generally ice-bound all the year round. But on the west coast where navigation is open three or four months every year, five coal mines are now in operation. Two of them are Norwegian, one is Swedish, another Dutch. Statistics show that between the years 1668 and 1775 about 58,000 whalers were killed in Spitzbergen waters and the consequences of this ruthless killing is that the whale is now entirely extinct in that territory.

No longer do the islands hold an interest for the hunter or the fisherman.

Now it is the explorer-aviator who finds here a camping ground.

Clue to Link Youths With Tracy Murder

(Continued From Page One) parent enjoyment of being in the light of a sordid romance and also to prevent examination by State attorneys to forestall a possible plea of insanity.

The writ hearing was continued until June 6.

It was only when three steel gates had clangled behind them last night that the full weight of the accusations against them seemed to dawn upon young Leob and Leopold. The latter, debonair, smiling and engaging throughout the period of questioning which had resulted in his confession and assistance in recovering various incriminating articles, sagged at the knees, sighed and moaned: "Three doors—three steel doors. I never thought it would come to this."

It was Leob then who bore up, although Leopold had termed him a weakling who had broken under interrogation and confessed.

Leopold, while reviling Leob for weakness, revealed that he had planned for the inevitable. He reminded Detective Sergeant Cleet of a trip to the Leopold home to recover a pair of rubber hip boots young Leopold had worn when he waded into a shallow lake to stuff the nude body of young Franks into a culvert where he had hoped it would remain forever without detection.

"If I had only known that Leob was peaching," he told Crowe. "I'd have killed myself there in my room. Do you recall? I had my hand on my gun, but before I killed myself I'd have put a few policemen out of the way. Yes, I'd have got you."

The pistol, along with another which it was said Leob had carried were seized as evidence. The boys said they were armed when they seized the Franks lad Wednesday, May 21 and that they would not have hesitated to shoot it out with any who interfered. The pistols and the finds of a letter written by Jacob Franks by the boy's side in Michigan Central Railroad car in New York has completed the collection of evidence needed by the state, according to Mr. Crowe, with the exception of a portable typewriter on which the ransom letter was written.

Diversions are searching a park lagoon from which the boys said the typewriter was buried.

The letter found in the railroad car was part of the elaborate system of directions to Mr. Franks for the delivery of the $10,000 ransom. Mr. Crowe said. The youths maintained their composure at the brief session yesterday of the coroner's inquest into the death of young Franks. They smiled and smoked incessantly, paying no attention to a crowd which mobbed about inside.

The inquest was continued to June 27.

CASE PROMISES TO BE BATTLE OF ALIENISTS BY OWEN L. SCOTT

CHICAGO, June 3.—The psychiatrists are in clover. Already they have begun coining new phrases and spinning tenuous theories to explain why two 19 year old boys—pampered sons of millionaire fathers—servants' sons, gifted in intellect far beyond their fellows—should have brutally murdered the 13 year old son of another millionaire. The trial of the slayers, when the $25,000,000 joint fortunes of the three fathers involved has been brought into full play, promises a battle of alienists surpassing even the famous Harry K. Thaw struggle for freedom.

Was it mere lust for killing, bred in minds depraved through lack of moral restraint; was it sex perversion, a study which long had engrossed the young savants; or was it an unbalanced mentality that delights in the torture of humans, that led Nathan E. Leopold, Jr., or Richard E. Loeb to slay young Robert Franks. To build up theory for the defense that will save the two boys from the gallows gallows, the millions of Albert H. Loeb, vice president of Sears Roebuck and Company, and those of Nathan E. Leopold, ship owner and manufacturer, are being devoted. The millions of Jacob Franks, manufacturer, will go behind the demand of the law in Illinois for an eye for an eye—the gallows for the confessed slayers of his son.

Some of the mental specialists who have studied the case see in the bravo the boastfulness of the slayers, evidence of the lust for torture and killing for its own sake. They find in the crime to the brilliant young killers an exaggeration of the desire that gave Harry K. Thaw pleasure in the flagellation of girls and boys. The statement of the boys that they killed "for the fun of it"—seeking a new thrill—heads out this theory.

Both boys had delved deeply into curious literature. Leopold, in particular, had devoted much time to the study of the perverted maniacs of old, who delighted in the torture of human beings, gloating over their pain and ultimate death. He knew too of the present day perversions, many in number, who derive pleasure from personally inflicted injury.

Other specialists incline to the belief that young Franks was kidnapped as the intended victim of some other form of perversion, and that he was slain when he recognized his captors.

Others, studying the intellectual history of the precocious pair, who were graduated from college with honors before they had reached the age at which most young men enter college; studying their flippant attitude toward morality, their disdain of religion, are building up a theory of a "crime of precocity." This is distinct from the ordinary crimes of degeneracy or perversion, for the latter are held by psychiatrists to be affairs of emotion rather than of the intellect.

"The aristocracy of moronity" is the phrase used by one well known specialist in an effort to classify the slayers. He finds the case "a paradox of paradoxes," in its fine show of mental contradictions on the part of the youths who "showed stolid impetuosity, bland and cocky assurance, set against undoubted symptoms of sexual perversion, with a brittle shell of sophistication in opposition to the subtlety of their minds".

None of the alienists pay much attention to the statement of the boys that the money sought to extort from Robert Franks' father was a compelling motive. Both lads had all the money they needed. The answer all agree, lies somewhere in the realm of pathology.

Young Leob has collapsed now. He is no longer a haughty young intellectual. He is just a weak, broken boy, pitifully apprehensive of the gallows he pictures as awaiting him.

Leopold is the same brilliant, haughty, contemptuous, egocentric youth. He says he realizes that death at the end of a hangman's noose is his portion, and he is ready to face it. Indeed to some observers, it seems that this boy, having tried all the sensations that life affords, looks forward to death as a great new adventure.

His arrogant emotion seems to be contempt for the "weakling" that Leob, the broken confessor of their frightful crime, has turned out to be.

HEAT RECORDER

D. M. I. COMMENCEMENT FEATURED BY AWARDS

The 1923-24 session of Danville Military Institute came to a close this morning with the graduating exercises which began at ten o'clock marking an address by Rev. Andrew R. Bird, D. D., of the Church of the Pilgrims, of Washington, D. C., the presentation of diplomas to the graduating class and the bestowal of other well-merited honors. The closing exercises were well attended by people of this community also by the parents of several of the out-of-town cadets who came in last night for the occasion.

The graduates this year are: William J. Bolen of Schoolfield, Frederick Henry Duncan, of Pelham, N. C.; James Curran Hobday, of Washington, D. C.; Robert Russell Neely, of Pamplin; Julian T. Owen, of Martinsburg, West Virginia, and John W. Booker, of North Carolina.

Dr. Bird in his address this morning spoke of the serious tasks of life before the young graduates and offered them encouragement in meeting the obstacles, and calculating them for their success in graduating—the culmination of four years of hard work and studious application. Rev. Johnson Dunlison offered the invocation. Captain J. C. Carter presented the medals for the Saunders Literary Society, Major R. C. Rivers made the wards of medals and scholarships, and Col. W. M. Kemper, superintendent of the institution awarding the diplomas.

James Powell, of Danville, was awarded the declamation medal while William J. Bolen, of Schoolfield, won both the debater's medal as well as that offered by the Saunders Society for public speaking.

The scholarship to Hampden-Sidney university was awarded to Robert Russell Neely, of Pamplin. To William C. Cox, of Pittsburgh, went the medal for the best kept room, while J. J. Pulliam, of Mississippi, won the medal offered for the most marked improvement in English composition. Mandel Sener, of Maryland, won the medal for the highest general average in studies; Julian T. Owen, of West Virginia, being awarded the medal for general excellence.

In addition to the foregoing prized awards insignia offered by the war department of the United States, which recognizes D. M. I. to markmen and sharpshooters were announced to the following:

Carey Barker Is Getting Results at Calvary Revival

Carey Barker, of Lynchburg, whose conversion during the Billy Sunday meetings in Lynchburg was one of the outstanding results of the evangelist's work in the Hill City, addressed a large congregation at Calvary Methodist Church last night on the topic "The Man With the Withered Hand."

The subject was ably handled, with no attempt at a homiletic array of materials, but in a direct, business-like way, and in a manner that made a strong appeal to the hearers. In the service that followed the sermon there were three conversations and a large number of reconsecrations.

Mr. Barker announced as a topic for Tuesday night "Human Wrecks or Big Business Failures." The business men of Danville have been invited to attend the service. The speaker is a merchandise broker in Lynchburg and returns each night to that city in order to transact business the next day. Yesterday he was accompanied on his return to Danville by several members of the Billy Sunday Club of Lynchburg.

All day yesterday and most of last night downtown Kansas City was a riot of music and fun. A teeming mass of humanity swirled, ebbed and edded the streets.

The picturesque attire of Chinese appeared with the arrival of Islam Temple, San Francisco. Besides the band and patrol, dressed in the accepted string garb, the visitors from the Golden Gates city included 300 men in Chinese dress. Imperial pomade Dykeman, Kismet Temple, Brooklyn, brought his own band, known as the Masonic world as the "shrine millionaire band." The organization has seventy musicians, several of whom are millionaires. Minchin, of Chicago, probably the largest caravan—more than 500—carried a 115-piece band, a fifty-piece oriental band, five patrols of forty members each and sixty chanters.

Some of the temples have their mascots. Mohammed, of Peoria, Ill., has "Pat," a good-natured camel. Moeslah, of Fort Worth, Texas, brought a white-faced Texas steer.

Grammer Lauds Elective System In the Colleges

(By The Associated Press)

SWEET BRIAR, Va., June 3.—The development of the elective system in college education by Dr. Charles S. Elliot of Harvard, gave proper recognition to personality. Dr. Carl E. Grammer, rector of St. Stephen's church, Philadelphia, said in an address prepared for delivery today at commencement exercises at Sweet Briar College.

The chief merit of that system was not the stimulus that it gave to various important neglected branches of culture, splendid as was that development. Dr. Grammer said. "The supreme distinction is in recognition of the rights of diverse individualities to acquire the kind of intellectual food and disciplinary test fitted for their needs. It makes the personality of the student a more rigid system, controlling consideration."

In Grammer made a plea for liberal education and the development of personality.

"The modern college," he continued, "is no merecanical bed for those who come to its halls. It forces its students into no fixed mould. It fully appreciates that individuality is one of the most precious of our personal possessions, and aims to develop it by providing a wide range of subjects and large freedom of choice, that every nature may have the opportunity to procure the mental food most suited to its taste and, therefore, most conducive to the best development."

LITTLE HEADWAY MADE IN PHILLIPS CASE

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Little headway was made today in the trial of John L. Phillips, of Georgia, and others on charges of conspiracy in the purchase of surplus government lumber sales.

Much of the session was occupied in reading documentary evidence including letters from George M. Chamberlain, a lumber expert, who was named in the indictment but who died before the trial was begun.

These letters referred to dates of alleged sales by John L. Phillips and John Stephens of surplus lumber at Camp Hills, Long Island and at Cape Knox, Ky.

The prosecution contends the letters indicate that misrepresentations were made to the government as to the sales being already consummated so that lumber would be released when in fact it is contained in later date and never made until a later date and to a person who on the witness stand declared he was to give two-thirds of the profits to one of the alleged conspirators.

Lady Astor Pays Tribute to Husband

LONDON, June 3.—Lady Astor, paying tribute to her husband in an address before a temperance convention in London yesterday said:

"My husband is a modest fellow; you have no idea what he has sacrificed it when he took up the cause of temperance."

Viscount Astor, not to be outdone, responded that since his wife had taken part in public life he had had occasion to change his politics and outlook but every time this was necessary he found that his politics and outlook ended on a higher plane."

Delicious Strawberry Jam

Easily Made In 15 Minutes

New Certo Method Never Fails

Only One Minute's Boiling, and Makes 12 Glasses of Jam from Two

Quarts Of Fruit

The days of hard work over a hot stove and the guess work with its worries and often waste loss of sugar and fruit, jam and jelly making is past and gone.

A nationally known jelly maker has found the way to extract pectin—that substance in fruit which makes the juice "jelly" or set when boiled with sugar—and then to refine and concentrate it for American housewives. So wonderful is this product called CERTO (Surejell) that over five million women have adopted its use within three years. With it anybody who will follow a simple recipe can now make jam or jelly with any kind of fruit without failure in a few minutes.

The CERTO method is as simple and accurate as "two and two make four." With CERTO you only boil

one minute, not the indefinite period of the old method. This one minute's boiling saves not only your precious time but it also saves the juice, which is formerly boiled away.</p

AN ALL-OCCASION DRESS

This design depends upon the material of which it is made, whether it will serve as a best, everyday or morning frock.

In silk crepe, either plain or printed this design would make an attractive best or Sunday frock.

In apricot linen or linene with brown braid, it would be nice for warm afternoons.

If you're dark, a crushed berry-colored chambray would make a becoming porch or morning dress.

Love to putter around the garden? In a meadow green cotton material with bindings and sash of canary yellow, it would be just the thing to wear, and you would look your prettiest, particularly if you're fair.

The woman whose hair is graying will probably look best in a gray, lavender or coral-colored cotton.

The pattern No. 2114 cuts in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. In the 36-inch size, 3½ yards of 40-inch material is needed. Price 15c in stamps or coin (coin preferred).

MISS MAXON TO LEAVE JULY 1ST

Miss Margaret Maxon today announced her retirement on July 1 as executive secretary of the Community Welfare Association of which she has been the head since January 1920.

The board of directors and a number of Miss Maxon's friends have known for some time that she would leave Danville, and her resignation was recently acted upon though formal announcement was withheld until today.

Miss Maxon is leaving Danville on the advice of her physicians in order that she may take a rest and thoroughly regain her health and strength which is confidently expected if she will forego active work at once.

It will be recalled that from January 1 to June 1, 1923, Miss Maxon suffered a breakdown largely as result of her energetic work with the Community Welfare Association and she left here and entered a nursing home in the north which greatly benefited her.

The work of the local organization has grown, and its scope of usefulness became wider and the strain has told on Miss Maxon's physique and her doctors have advised her as a precautionary measure to rest.

Her plans for the future are not definitely made but she will first go to Cincinnati, her home, and spend some time determining upon her future course.

It is expected that given the rest needed now she will be fitted for further usefulness as soon as she has fully recuperated her strength.

Miss Maxon will be succeeded as executive secretary of the Community Welfare Association by Mrs. A. Fulcrud, of Sheffield, Ala., who held Miss Maxon's place temporarily while she was away in 1923.

Mrs. Fulcrud has been communicated with by the board and has accepted the post and will be here on July 1 to assume it.

The whole cause of the Community

Welfare Association which directors of the organization agree has been developed largely through the administrative ability of Miss Maxon.

She will be presented to the people of Danville on Sunday night next at Main Street Church when the churches will hold a union service.

Miss Maxon will discuss the spiritual value of the work of the Community Welfare Association to this community.

Dr. Samuel Senter is also to make an address and there will be special music.

Many people have expressed regret that Miss Maxon has found it imperative to give up her work in Danville and have paid a tribute to her efficiency in the whole field of social welfare work.

The Girl Reserve swimming meet which was held at the Hylton Hall pool from May 27th to May 31st under the direction of Jack Whittington and Mrs. John Witcher proved most successful and girls who knew nothing about swimming learned in the four lessons to swim the length of the pool.

The last day of the meet forty-two girls were at the pool during the morning and all but three of these girls learned something about swimming.

The following is a partial list of the girls and what they learned during the lessons:

Mary Page Waddell, better diving over-hand stroke.

Annie Garrett, learned to dive, learned the breast stroke.

Martha Gibson, learned side stroke, learned to dive.

Isabelle Swann, learned to swim on back, learned to dive, improved side stroke.

Franklin Schoolfield, improved stroke.

Laura Schoolfield, learned to dive, improved stroke.

Linda Waddell, learned a new dive.

Dorothea, improved stroke, went in deep water for the first time.

Louise Boiscaul, learned to dive, improved stroke.

Nancy Tyree (could swim only a little), went in deep water, swims across pool, dives.

The following girls could not swim when they came out to Hylton Hall:

Lucile Copeland, learned dead man's float, could stay up for a time.

Helen Adams, learned to swim in deep water.

Meibla Hill, learned to swim in deep water.

Sybil Davis, learned to swim the length of pool.

Mamie Watson, learned dead man's float, could stay up a few strokes in deep water.

Frances Adams, can swim across pool.

Kattie Skinnell, conquered fear of water, although unable to swim now will learn quickly.

Elizabeth Taylor, goes in deep water.

Annie Withers, can keep up in deep water.

Elizabeth Long, conquered fear of water.

Alice Turbeville, can keep up in deep water.

Henrietta Ramos, swim across pool.

Martha Yeates, swim across pool.

Virginia Thompson, learned to swim, dive and swims in deep water.

Sonia Catlin, already knew how to swim, improved stroke.

Eleanor Dodson, already knew how to swim, learned another dive.

Clara Osborne, already knew how to swim a little, learned to float.

Louise Hill, could swim a little, learned to stay up in deep water, improved stroke.

Virginia Thompson and Sybil Davis learned quickened and improved more than any other girls during the meet.

The Y. W. C. A. feels indebted to the Y. M. C. A. for lending the services of Mr. Whittington, to Hylton Hall for the exclusive use of the pool for four mornings and to Mrs. Witcher who helped ten swimming.

It is hoped that some arrangement can be made with the new director of the pool for the Girl Reserves to have one morning a week for their use and may receive special instruction.

What to Wear With Tailored Suits

BY MARIAN HALE
NEA Service Writer

The three most approved methods of dressing the neck to the best advantage for the tailored suit are shown here.

Most popular is the scarf which leaves one completely mystified as to the blouse beneath. This may be rectangular or square and may be any color of the rainbow and of practically any material, but the most popular are of silk, and the designs, whether in black or white or in color, give the effect of having been printed on.

The blouse that fastens closely about the neck comes next in favor. Its collar may turn over to soften the severe line of the plain lapel, or may be a feminine version of the regular man shirt, or it may even be a high one fastened closely about the throat.

To wear a fancy vestee, without sleeves, that fastens like a blouse and gives the appearance of being one is another favorite device that will be even more popular as the season advances and the extra protection about the throat is no longer desirable.

RICKARD PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO INDICTMENT

NEWARK, N. J., June 2.—George L. (Tex) Rickard, Fred C. Quimby, and Frank B. Flourney of New York today were arraigned before federal judge Lynch and pleaded not guilty to indictments charging illegal transportation of the Dempsey-Carpenter fight films. A similar plea was entered by Fred C. Quimby, Inc., in a corporation, included in the indictment. Rickard, Quimby and Flocurrency furnished bonds of $2,500 each and were released.

Jasper C. Muma, indicted with them, delayed making an appearance in court until he had completed arrangements for furnishing bail.

Counsel for the defendants indicated that a move would be made to test the validity of the indictments.

Helen's Adventures in Shopping

HELEN found Louise, waiting for her in the exquisitely furnished foyer to the tea-room, ensconced in a restful chair. Louise said she was so comfortable she wasn't at all sorry Helen was late. Helen was fascinated at the sight of the smartly dressed women who thronged the foyer. She had not seen anything like it outside of New York's fashionable hotels.

For luncheon they had their choice of the Colonial room, the Italian room or the English room, and they chose the Colonial room. The food was delicious, inexpensive and delightfully served. When they had finished, Helen was rested and refreshed and ready to continue her shopping.

Now for the hat! Back to the second floor again. There was table after table of the prettiest shapes and colors. She wanted something to go with her new costumes—something very stylish, something that couldn't be bought outside of Richmond.

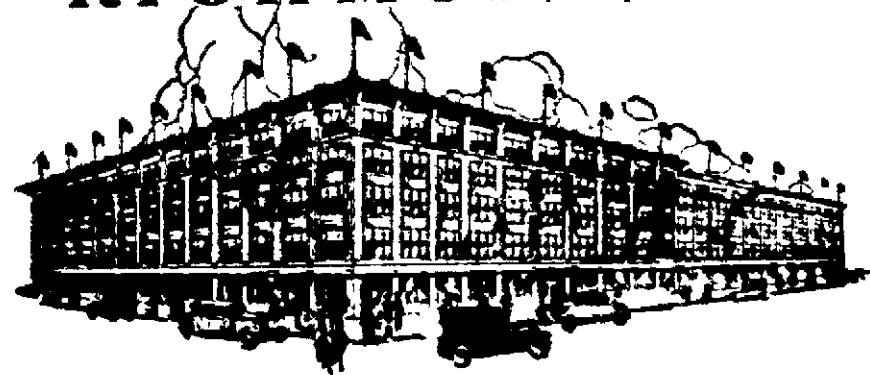

In the French room they found exclusive models and copies of French importations. Helen fairly bubbled over with excitement as she tried on hat after hat. It seemed almost impossible to pick the prettiest—they were all so becoming! Louise helped her select a sweet-looking hat of hair braid and lace to match her new dress. The hat was so low-priced Helen felt she could afford another for her sport costume, and she picked a gay-colored cloche in rough braid straw.

Both the dresses and hats were so amazingly inexpensive, Helen decided she could afford to have a collar and cuff set to modify her sport dress. She had seen such pretty sets in the window before coming into the store—dainty ones of organdie, with brilliantly colored showers of ribbon bows. On the way to the Neckwear Shop Louise caught sight of the most adorable negligee in pink chiffon and lace, and succumbed to the irresistible desire to have it for her own.

Helen's purchases were all to be sent to her. The very nice salesperson promised to have them mailed that day, and said the store would pay the postage. She thrilled at the thought that her purchases would leave the store on their journey to her home probably before she herself left the store.

GOO GOO COUNCIL AGAINST SCHOOL

The Goo Goo Club candidates are now claiming to be in favor of adequate school facilities. Six of their candidates are members of the present council. During the four years the present council has been in office, it has spent in the neighborhood of five million dollars. Mr. Taxpayer had voter do you know of any permanent improvement that has been made to the public schools during these four years? We can answer this for you, for there has not been any such improvements. Since the present council took office the schools have been daily becoming more congested. Now on the eve of the election this body publicly announces that it is in favor of schools. The council should know that the voters are going to bear in mind their (council's) deeds and not promises, when the Goo Goo council has shown beyond a shadow of a doubt that it is against schools. The council has had sufficient funds to enlarge and improve what they wanted to but for schools not a cent. These professional band wagon riders are trying to get on the wagon long after it has left but they will only be able to get in sight of the dust. They have had four years to grab their seats when the children were daily calling "All Aboard" for the necessary schools.

Why is the Goo Goo Club continuously crying vote for our ticket and get good government. Danville has certainly not had what could be called a satisfactory administration for the past four years, yet one would judge with the Goo Goos running six (all that would allow themselves for candidacy) of the present council that these men will be rejuvenated within a day if again elected. Let's look back and analyze a few of the items of Good Government that the Goo Goo Council has given our city. Is it not a fact that the City Farm was offered to the old Council for approximately $8,000.00 and the Goo Goo Council purchased this farm for $20,000.00 and then abandoned it.

Is it not a fact that the Goo Goo Council purchased 57 acres of land over four miles from Danville at $450.00 per acre?

The present council undoubtedly had been drinking Postum, and had some "reason" which has not been made known or are grossly incapable in handing large sums to pay such an exorbitant price for farm lands located at such a distance from the city. The Jewish Cemetery, which is located on one of the most attractive sites across the Dan from the old Merrifield Club, was purchased about four years ago at $200.00 per acre, when farm lands were considerably higher. This site is only about a mile from the corporate limits of the city. Recently, Plummer Wiseman purchased 45 acres of land for $5,500.00, less than on the new Martinsville concrete road, $115.00 per acre, which is not as far from the city limits as the new cemeteries site the city recently purchased. This land may not be quite as adaptable for cemetery purposes, but its location and other features make it decidedly more desirable and is worth more in dollars and cents, per acre, than the new cemetery site acquired by the city. Why Bridge street merely because two Councilmen are interested in property fronting on this street, should be paved with the most expensive type of pavement is beyond reason.

If the ministration of the City affairs for the past four years has been what the Goo Goo Club considers Good Government, then everyone should see the straight citizens ticket for BETTER GOVERNMENT.

WILL GERMANY EVER PAY?

Getting blood out of a turnip is easy, compared with extracting reparations from Germany. That much is becoming apparent, though it's hard to get at the truth. Both sides color their statistics.

In 1923, for instance, according to the Reparations Commission, the allies were able to squeeze out of Germany only about the equivalent of three and a quarter million dollars in cash reparations.

Scoop's Column

DRAKES BRANCH, June 3.—(Wireless)—Second day of the first week, only time to wait until election day? Then the agony will be over. Don't f-l-i-g-h-t, boys, don't f-l-i-g-h-t! Keep your shirt on; the game ain't worth it. The old town will weather the storm and continue to grow in spite of the anxieties and ravings of the Goo Goo Club. The HOME FOLKS are not excited; they need no high-powered organization to lead them by the noses; they resent the implication of incapacity for self determination in choosing candidates for public office; they will register a solemn protest Tuesday and then go on with their gardening. We will bet on the HOME FOLKS every time. This may be said for "the good of the order," not in the memory of the oldest residents we have had such a big list to choose from in electing a town council. Nineteen good men have offered themselves on the altar of public service, and surely out of this number a fairly satisfactory result may be expected. The HOME FOLKS can be trusted!

These two items do not include whatever France and Belgium were able to make in the way of profits out of their occupation of the Ruhr. By the time the expenses of the armies of occupation were paid, not much was left in the way of net indemnity.

Up to the beginning of 1924, Germany had paid a total of only a little more than two million dollars, the Reparations Commission claims.

A third of this amount was in the form of delivery of ships, war materials, cables and territory including the Saar miles.

Apparently Alsace-Lorraine is not included under surrendered territory. Nor the German colonies. These are worth billions. Even considering these figures with an eye for propaganda, it is evident that Germany has not paid a cent more than she had to. For that matter, she never will.

At the peace conference, European diplomats began talking about reparations of from 36 to 180 billion dollars. Some of the American financial experts who were present said: "Germany will pay five billion dollars cash surely, six billions possibly, but not more than seven."

What Germany should pay and what she will pay, are separate and distinct matters.

All the gold that's left in Germany would not be a drop in the bucket compared with what the allies want, France in particular. How, then, will Germany pay? Her imports still are exceeding exports—unless she's juggling her figures, which is more than likely. The leading nations want Germany to sell goods abroad, build up favorable trade balances and turn the money over to the war winners. Then the same nations surround themselves with high tariffs and every other conceivable fence to keep out German goods. They favor selling—but to some one else.

Skeptics, have a glimmering suspicion that reparations payments will depend mainly on the length of time required until Germany will feel strong enough to point to her new crop of cannon fodder and announce that she is through paying. Maybe, though, as optimists hope, she'll pay voluntarily.

GENERAL LEE'S HOME

Most Americans do not realize that General Lee lived in Arlington, just outside the city of Washington. His old home still stands there. Attention has been called to it by a resolution introduced in the House, by a Northern congressman—for the restoration of the Lee mansion, its furnishing as it was in the General's lifetime and its preservation as a national monument.

There can be no sound objection to this project and there is much to commend it. General Lee is a national figure. He is the Southern war leader whom the North has most respected and whom the South adores still, as did when he led his armies. He was a great soldier and a big, fine-spirited, Christian gentleman, worthy of honor as one of America's best beloved sons, regardless of the losing cause in which he fought.

The suggestion is in keeping with recent procedure in this country. It is realized more and more clearly that there is no memorial of great man quite so appealing and illuminating as the house he lived in. Washington's, Jefferson's and Lincoln's homes have been preserved as monuments, and those of many a lesser character, though usually with private funds. Whether the money be public or private is of little consequence. In this case, there would be a special appropriateness in the country as a whole defraying the cost through a public appropriation. If there are no private funds available,

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION TO BE "DRY"

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK, June 2.—Madison Square Garden will be "dry" during the Democratic National Convention, members of the convention committee announce.

David Langinberg, who has the restaurant concession, has been compelled to deposit a substantial bond to be forfeited in event of violations of the Volstead act by himself or his employees.

The contract also provides for "moderate" food prices.

Cause of Piles

Dr. Leonhardt found the cause of piles to be internal. That's why salves and operations fail to give lasting relief. His prescription: Hemlock, a harmless tablet, removes the cause. Money back if it fails. Ask Patterson Drug Company or any good druggist for Dr. Leonhardt's Hemlock.—adv.

"Tiz" Eases Aching, Swollen, Sore Feet

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pestered, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a "Tiz" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "Tiz" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—sit out—just try "Tiz." It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "Tiz." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

A few cents buy a box of "Tiz" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet feel hoy comfortable your shoes feel.—adv.

Nicholas Is Still Hopeful

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Writer

SANTENY-SERVON, France, June 3.—Back in the early years of the World War, Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaevitch commanded the czar's great armies.

He owned palaces and estates all over Russia. Before he took the field with his troops, he lived the life of a royal prince and wealthy nobleman. But today he is a simple country gentleman in the little Chateau of Choiny, on the outskirts of this humble hamlet where for centuries times has stood still.

His command, once numbering millions, is reduced now to 20 faithful Cossacks. His household does not exceed 8 or 10 persons. And his table is the plainest.

Popular In Village.
It sounds like tragic tale—and in part it is. But the man who, due to the machinations of the last of the czarinas, was deprived of his title of generalissimo of the Russian armies and sent into practical exile in the Caucasus; the man who practically was a prisoner of the Bolsheviks before he managed to escape to Italy, is abiding his hour.

Although 68, he still is vigorous, straight as the Russian pine, well over six feet tall, and but a little grayer than in his campaigns of 1914-16.

He and his friends are confident that soon the call for service will come. Meanwhile, he lives in an isolation which would think impossible in place only an hour by train from Paris.

Two or three trains a day stop at the station called Santeny-Servon. The village itself is a mile and a half away. Here yo ufind some 200 souls, most of whom are employed as farm hands in the surrounding wheat country of Brie.

Although this country voted heavily for the parties of the Left Wing in the recent elections, the grand duke is popular with the peasantry.

They call Nicholas' rented estate the Chateau of Choiny—but it isn't a castle. It is more like a French chateau residence—a low rambling two-story white structure with a gauze screen around it and powdered in horse-chestnuts, maples and other trees flowering at this time of the year. Cossacks Guard Him.

Obtain this "Prescription" of Dr. Pierce's now of your nearest druggist, in tablets or liquid, and start on the high road to health and good looks. Write Dr. Pierce, President, Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.—adv.

TODAY'S

Washington LETTER

By HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, June 3.—July 4th make take on a new significance in our national life after this year.

To date, our histories record July 4th as chiefly notable because it marks the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence back in '76.

Future historians, however, may feel impelled to add to this that it is also the anniversary of the birth of Calvin Coolidge, twenty-ninth president of the United States, should Coolidge run true to his lucky stars and be returned to the White House for another historic four years.

While other senators are dining at noon, Walsh likely is munching a piece of fruit. What he eats is of little concern, says he.

When the Senate adjourns for the day Walsh hops into his car again and drives home. The machine is parked for the day and then he starts on foot for the famous Rock Creek Park and the Washington zoo.

A two-hour stroll before supper is the usual thing, and often another walk follows in the evening.

Walsh plays golf almost every Sunday. He likes the walking part of it best.

Theaters have little appeal—they interfere with the eight hours sleep he insists upon getting every night.

When the Senate session is over Walsh will head for Lake McDonald at Glacier National Park, Montana. That's his pet loafing spot.

Will July 4, 1924, take place alongside July 4, 1776, as a milestone in American history as a result of the Declaration?

Should La Follette candidacy be decided on at that time, and should such candidacy catch public favor even to the extent of deadlocking the election of both old party candidates, the train of events which could conceivably follow might do more to shape the future. If this government than anything which has happened since the original July 4th Declaration.

That La Follette will lead an independent ticket, in an attempt to elect a progressive group which will hold the balance of power in the next Congress and put the choice for president in the balance, is now accepted here as certain.

His letter of May 27, washing his hands of the Farmer-Labor convention June 17, in which communistic elements have gained a footing, and his challenge to both old parties that "a long-suffering and righteously indignant people will find in the coming campaign effective means, independent of both these old parties, to take back control of their government," is taken as indicating his willingness to lead the fight.

Offsetting July 4 as a date for the Coolidge and La Follette followers to concur with Democrats present that of June 24 when the New York gathering convenes, as one of favorable and hopeful portent.

On the eve of June 24 brings Midsummer Night, when fairies and elves stir abroad with their witcheries and enchantment.

By the aid of the fairies, it is suggested, convention difficulties may be harmoniously solved, an da Prince Charming chosen to lead the party to victory.

The latest tip from the Dark Horse stables is that Carter Glass, ex-secretary of treasury and senator from Virginia, promises to be the "Black Gold" of the Democratic derby.

Glass his backers say, is rounding into the home stretch in good form and will force to the front in the coming campaign effective means, independent of both these old parties, to take back control of their government.

It is significant that most of the surviving Romanoffs not long ago chose Grand Duke Cyril—now living in Nice—as protector of the rights of the old throne, thousands of loyal Russians the world over look upon Nicholas as the man who ultimately will deliver Russia from the soviet.

Nicholas wanders about his grounds in the ordinary clothes worn by Frenchmen of the leisure class. He never goes to Paris.

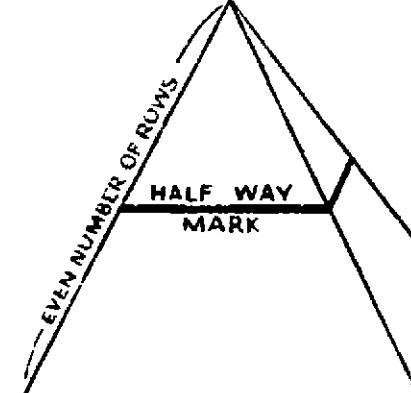

Considerable part of his time is spent in writing a history of the first part of the great war. Long years ago he wrote a history of Russia under one of the great czars.

So writing now, he is returning to one of his early loves.

Most of his guests are Russians who escaped the Soviet Cheka who have information to place at his disposal.

It is significant that most of the able Russians come to Santeny to report to him, instead of going to Nice to report to Cyril.

DAILY PUZZLE

An Aztec pyramid was discovered in Mexico which was formed by square blocks. There was one block (1x1) on the top row, four blocks (2x2) on the second row; nine blocks (3x3) on the third row, and so on. A half-way mark divides the pyramid into an upper and a lower section. The number of blocks in the bottom row of the lower section was four times as many as the number of blocks in the bottom row of the upper section. The number of the bottom row of the lower with its last figure struck off, was just four times as great as the number in the bottom row of the upper with its last figure struck off, and likewise, if the last two figures of each number were struck off, the lower would prove four times as large as the upper.

What was the smallest number of rows possible in the pyramid?

Best Seen From Blowing Rock

Amica and Rhododendron Paint the Blue Ridge With Gossamer Colors. The loveliest park-and-motor trip of all the year is a drive to the Blue Ridge where the laurel, rhododendron and azalea are in full bloom.

Latest reports indicate that the display will be at its best until week ending June 24.

And the view unequalled elsewhere in all the world is that from the veranda of Mayview Manor, at Blowing Rock, where range upon range, tier upon tier, the loftiest peaks of Eastern North America rear themselves against the horizon. And at this time every slope is a glorious burst of color.

Mayview Manor (opens May 26) is reached over perfect roads, via Hickory or Taylorsville and Lenoir, and a truly delightful hotel, new, but with all the atmosphere of an old English inn.—adv.

Walsh Likes Few Extra Winks

WASHINGTON, June 3.—An early riser is one of the things that Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana is not.

The fact that he must have his forty winks in the morning necessitates his motoring to his daily duties at the capital, instead of walking, as would be his natural preference.

Walsh drives his own car and parks it outside the senatorial sanctum while he carries on his work. Motoring is a matter of business rather than pleasure.

You seldom see the senator's face outside the capitol between the hours of nine-thirty in the morning and five in the afternoon.

While other senators are dining at noon, Walsh likely is munching a piece of fruit. What he eats is of little concern, says he.

When the Senate adjourns for the day Walsh hops into his car again and drives home. The machine is parked for the day and then he starts on foot for the famous Rock Creek Park and the Washington zoo.

A two-hour stroll before supper is the usual thing, and often another walk follows in the evening.

Walsh plays golf almost every Sunday. He likes the walking part of it best.

Theaters have little appeal—they interfere with the eight hours sleep he insists upon getting every night.

When the Senate session is over Walsh will head for Lake McDonald at Glacier National Park, Montana. That's his pet loafing spot.

Will July 4, 1924, take place alongside July 4, 1776, as a milestone in American history as a result of the Declaration?

Should La Follette candidacy be decided on at that time, and should such candidacy catch public favor even to the extent of deadlocking the election of both old party candidates, the train of events which could conceivably follow might do more to shape the future. If this government than anything which has happened since the original July 4th Declaration.

INTERSECTIONAL CLASHES OF MAJORS BEGIN TODAY

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, June 3.—Four eastern clubs of the American league play in the west today and two western teams of the National invade the east in the opening games of the second big migration of the baseball season.

Major interest attaches to the American with Detroit as the strategic point in a triple contest with New York and Boston for the leadership.

The Tigers tied with the Red Sox, one half game back of the Yankees, entertain Washington and Philadelphia before clashing with the world's champions and Boston.

The path of Huggins and his team, with Babe Ruth carrying more than his usual appeal because of his attack on his 1921 home run record and his designation as the most valuable man in the American circuit, lies in order, through Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit and Cleveland.

The Red Sox go from St. Louis to Chicago and through Cleveland to Detroit. The schedule calls for all eastern clubs to meet each western rival in four games June 19.

The situation in the National league where the Giants enjoy a two-game lead and other clubs follow at distances graded mostly to one game rests principally upon the success with which western clubs renew their attack upon McGraw's team which appears to be almost invincible in contests with teams of its own section.

Under the eye of John McGraw, who with his injured leg resting in a cast watched his team play for the first time since the series at Pittsburgh, the Giants displayed a reversal of form yesterday and defeated Boston 9 to 6 in a setting of scintillating fielding and clustered base hits. Ryan held the Braves to one hit in six innings but weakened badly in the last three frames and was relieved by Jonnard. Kelly hit a homer and two singles. Pittsburgh advanced to within a game of the faded Reds and the first division by trouncing the Cards 6 to 2. Carey hit a home run. The Pirates will begin their eastern swing at Brooklyn tomorrow in confident mood and are generally regarded as ripe for a sprint. Washington defeated the Athletics 8 to 2 as Walter Johnson held Mack's team to seven hits. No other games were scheduled in either league.

Anderson Traded By the Twins For Waldron, Haury

WINSTON-SALEM, June 3.—First Baseman Ben Anderson has been traded for Pitcher Haury, a most promising young right hander, and for Bill Waldron, second baseman of the Rocky Mount team, of the Virginia League. Manager Walker, of the Virginia League, of the Rocky Mount club has been dickered with Anderson for the past several days for an agreement yesterday in a long distance telephone conversation.

Ben Anderson is recognized by the fans in this city as being one of the cleanest, hardest-fighting players in the game.

Fans around here know something of Haury. He was here for a short while last year, but was recalled by the Bronchos and put right to work in their line-up. He is regarded as a pitcher of exceptional possibilities.

Waldron was in this league the first year of its organization, playing second base for the High Point club. He has played both second and third. He is a righthand hitter, and is regarded as a hard hitting man. He is a class man, and has been playing regularly in the Rocky Mount line-up this season.

Catcher Ray Cromer, who was signed Saturday after the releasing of "Tex" Allison, reported last night and was with the team this afternoon in Greenville.

Bill Jackson will probably be on first this afternoon and from now on. He has not as yet decided where Waldron will play, though he may be used as shortstop.

Dundee to Meet Leonard Again

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, June 3.—A ninth meeting between lightweight champion Benny Leonard and featherweight king Johnny Dundee, "of the cards" following the elimination of Luis Viscum, lightweight champion of Chile, in a 12-round bout by Dundee last night. Neither of the Dundee titles was at stake.

Personnel of the Grays Announced

Offices of the newly organized Danville Grays have been established in the Boswell building which was recently secured by the organization as an armory. Although the officers are now stationed there, the company will not use the building as drill quarters until further notice. They will continue to drill in the Municipal Hall for a short time. The Danville Grays, which offers an exceptional opportunity for the young men, are making preparations for their encampment at Fortress Monroe during August. They will go to camp August 15 and leave August 15th, affording two weeks of wholesome vacation at the expense of the government. They will also get regular army pay while at camp. A home they drill one and a half hours per week on Thursday night and get pay for the whole day.

At the social side of this company it will be just what the boys desire it. Dress uniforms, understood to be of gray material will be ordered soon. The present personnel of the organization follows: Harry T. Adkins, captain; Harris B. Moseley, first Lieutenant; David Goodman Tuck, second Lieutenant; (non-commissioned and) Lieutenant: (non-commissioned officers have not been appointed) and Frank G. Adams, Roy W. Burnett, George C. Belton, Andrew D. Broder Jr., Max R. Boger, Paul M. Coker, Clarence C. Carter, Charles H.

Grandstand Gaff

THE same old weekly habit—dropping the ball on Monday game. Used to be that it was only at home that the Monday game was dropped, but now it seems that the habit has taken a firm hold. Does anybody remember when Danville won a Monday game? Far be it from such. It must be something that transpires on Sunday. Anyways, the locals never put up a real game on Monday. They always play a ragged game in the field and do little hitting. Yesterday five errors were charged against them. In fact all of the Monday games are full of errors. It has happened too many times there must be some cause.

Maitland started off to pitch a tight ball, but his slants were soon found and the Capitols found him to be an easy mark after the fourth inning.

Maybe his honor, the umpire, Mr. Spencer had something to do with the one-sided score. He put Manager Murphy out of the game for protesting a decision at the plate. It was in the sixth. Barrett sprung with all force at a ball high above his shoulder. Spencer called it a ball. Barrett missed the ball three feet. When Murphy hollered, he was put out of the game. Strange nothing like that ever happens in Danville. Murphy is not known as a persistent kicker and the fact that he and his men are banished so frequently away from home is hard to understand. It always happens away from Danville down in the Tarheel state. From that sixth inning on the Virginians had no pep.

Danville's biggest chance came in the third (after Mr. Umpire began doing his routine decisions). With the bases loaded and but one out, Johnson reared the side with an unassisted double-k line. Inman had lined to him and he touched

Establishing Food Habits

How One Child Learned to Like Prunes.

(Edith Lochridge Reid.) An important phase of child training is teaching correct food habits. Many a family mealtime is made utterly unpleasant because some member is dissatisfied with the menu. The world is full of persons who are continually causing friction because they have pampered appetites, or due to organic trouble or chronic illness, but rather to the lack of firm, wise guidance in their eating habits as growing children.

Many a young mother will offer a baby some good, wholesome broth which is highly recommended by the book of rules, and which in truth is just what a baby should have when he begins to eat food other than milk alone. But baby turns away.

He doesn't like the new concoction for it doesn't taste like what he has been having. Perhaps she offers it to him a second time—twice is usually the limit—and if he again refuses to swallow it, she says, "O, he doesn't like it."

Then when grandma comes over she tells, "Baby doesn't like that broth I made, he won't touch it," and soon the whole retinue of relatives is repeating that there's one thing darling won't eat and that's broths.

Now such a young mother neglects to take into consideration the circumstances that may have caused baby to refuse this food. If he is weaned he may not feel well. Or perhaps he is not especially hungry at that time. A feeling of playfulness could cause him to push the spoon aside.

Anyway from that time forth when the family has beef broth, mother says, "don't serve baby any, for he won't eat it."

And when he is over to Aunt Mollie's she says, "I know there's no use offering you any of this for you don't like it."

That's why such a child grows up imagining he doesn't like broth, when patience on mother's part would have overcome his aversion.

Mickey Walker Still Wears Crown

(By The Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, June 3.—The welterweight pugilistic crown still adorns the head of Mickey Walker, of Elizabeth, N. J., but it received a powerful jarring at the hands of Lew Tender, Philadelphia southpaw, in a ten-round match at the National park last night.

The lanky quaker pugilist fought a game fight against the two listed champion. The newspapermen at the ringside gave the champion three rounds. Tender two and called five rounds even.

Tender's aggressiveness, his tantalizing long left hand, coupled with a close guard and an ability to box Walker off when the champion started his rushes, made the Philadelphian look good against the title holder. On the other hand Walker lacked his usual aggressiveness and punching power that has characterized his fighting thus far as king of the 147 pound maulers.

Christina Endeavor
Meeting Will Be Held In Richmond

RICHMOND, Va., June 3.—E. Lee Trinkle, governor of Virginia, will welcome delegates of the All-South Christian Endeavor convention at the opening session in this city July 10.

Thousands of delegates from every state in the South will attend, and according to Charles F. Evans, of Chattanooga, executive secretary of the movement in Dixie, the convention promises to be one of the most outstanding ever directed by Southern leaders.

Governor Trinkle is an ardent believer in the movement, and has accepted the honorary chairmanship of the Richmond committee. This committee has been engaged for sometime on many new features designed with the view of making the convention one of the best ever held by Southern Endeavorers.

Prominent leaders in civic and religious circles have accepted places on the program. These include Dr. Francis E. Clark, founder of the Christian Endeavor movement; Dr. Daniel A. Poling, associate president of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, Dr. Peter Ainslie, of Baltimore, minister of the Christian Temple, Edward P. Gates, general secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, of Boston, Mass.; and Frank Lynn Freer, of Ohio.

In addition to the general sessions of the All-South convention, three other conventions will be held during the week, including the sessions of the Virginia and North Carolina unions, and a Junior Christian Endeavor convention, under the direction of Miss Mamie Gene Cole, notable child's park director for the organization.

CONFESS MURDER OF BALTIMORE JEWELER

(By The Associated Press)

BALTIMORE, June 2.—Joseph Green, who with Claude Dobbs, George Gross and Thomas Foran, was indicted today by a grand jury for the murder of Louis Cohen, a jeweler, during the robbery of his store here May 13, made a confession relating the circumstances surrounding the crime. Police said today.

Green's confession is said to place the actual killing of Cohen between Dobbs and Dobbs. These two accordin g to the alleged confession, were on the pavement in front of Cohen's store, where the jeweler was shot as he tried to recover several thousand dollars worth of jewelry snatched from his window, while Green and Foran remained in the car in which the quartet escaped. The robbery had been planned several months beforehand. Green is reported to have said. Immediately after the holdup, the youths went to Philadelphia, but separated after arriving there. Green, Gross and Dobbs being arrested later at Fredericksburg, Va.

Pleas of not guilty to the murder charge were recorded by the quartet today. They were ordered held for trial without bail. Green first pleaded guilty but his plea was not accepted because he had not consulted an attorney.

COMING

Business will make a turn for the better in the not distant future, predicts Willis L. King. His vice president of James & Laughlin, powerful in the steel industry.

King looks for better times after the presidential nominating conventions. The really big spurt upward will come after the fall elections, according to opinions of leading business men.

Business cannot continue dull very long, that's sure. Stocks of raw materials in manufacturers' hands and finished goods in retail stores are low. There has been little overbuying or overproduction.

S-R

Julius Rosenwald, president of the big Sears-Roebuck mail order house which gets half by the carload and sells millions of dollars of goods to farmers, says:

"We are going to have a better business this fall than we had this spring. Our spring business has not been 10 per cent better than last year, but our fall business ought to bring this year's average up to about that percentage. The farmer is getting in better shape all the time."

All weather vanes show the trade winds blowing toward a rising sun of prosperity. The recent setback is only temporary.

RADIOED

Sending photographs long distances by radio is not going to be as easy to do as to talk about. Interference and fading have to be mastered first. They'll be mastered all right. But it'll take time. This is however, one scientific wonder that you'll find in general use within 10 or 20 years. The entire science of radio is in its infancy. One of these days, no batteries for long distance receiving sets. Sounds impossible, but it's already done by crystal sets, 30 miles radius if 30, why not 3000?

STOCK REPORT

UNFIT

Uncle Sam is fighting to stop the packing of salmon which have been held so long out of water that they are unsalable in a fresh fish market. Fifty-eight batches seized and condemned. This is done under the national pure food act, which is as sensible a piece of legislation as we've had in our history.

You learn something about business ethics when it takes the government, backed by all the power of the courts, to prevent rotten fish being sold to the public in cans by a few unscrupulous canners. But don't be afraid to eat canned salmon. On the average, it's safer and purer to eat than so-called "fresh fish" in city markets. When gone bad, it can usually be detected by odor and unnatural color. Most canners pack

POORHOUSE

A luxurious poorhouse for down-and-out rich men is opened in New York. It's described as rivaling a first-class hotel in comfort and beauty. Built and maintained by a fund of five million dollars, left by Andrew Freedman, capitalist and baseball magnate who died in 1915.

Back of it all is the principle you don't know what you're missing.

How about rich men's home for the old age of people who have always rubbed elbows with poverty? Still better change the system so there wouldn't be any need for poorhouses. Poverty is inexcusable in the midst of our tremendous national wealth and prosperity.

BONUS

"Handling soldier bonus called bigger job than the draft," says a headline. That'll probably be the case.

Uncle Sam is apt to be a heap sight more careful handling dollars than he was handling drafted men during the war.

The cheapest commodity is human life, when a war's on. That's because we have a democracy except when we need it most.

IT is a pretty well known fact that paint is a preservative. What science has preached, experience has confirmed. Paint used at regular intervals, is a relentless foe of decay, which, if unopposed, is certain. It lessens the upkeep of your property and reduces repair bills to a minimum.

Pee Gee Mastic Paint has been on the firing line over half a century protecting homes, barns, and outbuildings. At least $40,000 will be expended at once in placing paved sidewalks, brick paving, guttering, water and sewer mains, gas and electric lines, as result of recent council action.

David L. Strain, vice-president and general manager of the Guaranty Realty Company, who has been in the city arranging for the sale, states that an automobile and several cash prizes will be given away.

NEW YORK STOCKS

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 3.—President Coolidge imported a firm tone to stock prices at the opening of today's market. Gains on initial transactions were slight but the main tendency was unmistakably upward. General Electric and Chambers Motors, moved up more than a point and most market leaders were fractionally higher.

In reflection of receivership proceedings against middle states oil corporation more than 10,000 shares of the company's stock were sold in the first 15 minutes trading, driving the price down to 17-8, a new minimum figure for the year. Activity in this stock was the feature of the relatively quiet market, although business was on a much larger scale than in yesterday's sombre trading. Prices stiffened gradually throughout the entire list but gains generally were restricted to the substantial fractions.

Recognized leaders such as U. S. Rubber, Babcock and Wilcox, American Can, and International Harvester continued conspicuously in the upward movement. Gulf States rose 1-3, American Water Works and famous Players reached the year's highest levels at 57-1-4 and 75-5-8 respectively. Foreign exchanges opened steady.
